

Massachusetts Audubon's Boston Nature Center

The George Robert White Environmental Conservation Center's environmental and energy conservation techniques and technologies include: photovoltaic roof shingles to generate electricity, solar thermal panels for water heating, geo-thermal heat pumps for earth generated heating and cooling, passive solar vine trellis for summer shading, wood shingles, trim and framing from sustainable forestry operations, and furniture and carpeting made from recycled material.

